by Arthur Casas

Reference: #00001989

This hardcover monograph is a tribute to one of the most significant living Latin American architects; Arthur Casas, born in 1961 in São Paulo, is an architect of residential and commercial spaces, a real estate developer, and designer. "I experienced the best period of Brazilian architecture, when anything was possible," says Casas, "including designing a whole city•reorganizing the way of life in urban areas. I brought from my childhood this freedom, and a commitment to modernist principles." Although deeply influenced by Brazil, he always has the capability to surprise through his work.
