

Cubo Sofa

by Jorge Zalszupin, 1970

Designed in the late 1970s, this sofa is part of the Cubo collection, unique among Jorge Zalszupin's other compositions. Lightweight and made of wood, these are upholstered pieces that cherish comfort. Perhaps the most significant aesthetic distinction of this collection is that the back and seat were formulated by carefully sculpting a solid cube, highlighted in its stitching. The Zalszupin family worked to modernize and improve this sofa; originally, there were only up to three seats available, whereas in this reedition there are up to four.
