Victoria amazonica is a large species of water lily, native to the Amazon Rainforest. The Victoria Amazonica Coffee Table was named after this spectacular aquatic plant for its semblance to the species. The coffee table is composed of four independent petal-like pieces, which slide along a hidden track to adjust to various position settings. The table can be in a more "closed" position, with the petals all close together, or open, bringing the table pieces, and objects on top, closer to where a person is sitting.

Part of the Tapajós collection, launched in partnership with Espasso in December 2022.
